The New Homebrew Moment

In 1975, builders explored personal computers. Today, builders are exploring personal AI agents.

From using tools — to building with agents — to delegating real workflows.

Every major platform shift begins the same way: a small group of curious builders gathers before the market fully understands what is happening. We are in that moment right now.

 Every platform shift begins with builders gathering early.

ABOUT

What Is ClawCon?

A festival for Personal AI.

Open. Social-first. Demo-first.

Not a corporate conference. ClawCon is a gathering for builders, tinkerers, and the genuinely curious — people who want to get their hands on the technology and make something real with it.

When a technology becomes real, builders gather before the market fully understands it.
